Alumni Support Auburn Annual Giving With $185,000

A record 3,900 alumni and friends supported the 1968 Auburn Annual Giving (AAG) campaign, giving more than $185,000 to help Auburn University toward excellence. In its fourth year the AAG program showed a $60,000 increase over 1967 with 600 more contributions. Eight per cent of the current alumni on record participated.

One of the most notable increases in the AAG program came in the 28.5 per cent rise in the number of alumni giving $100 or more and thereby becoming members of the Century Club. The 1968 Century Club membership reached 421 compared with 325 in 1967.

Alumni Leon Gottlieb '22 and Clyde Pearson '26 added incentive to their class contributions this year by agreeing to match the total amount given by their classmates. For the third year, the class of 1922 has given the largest amount, followed this year by the class of 1921. The class of 1914 with 22.5 per cent contribution edged out the class of 1908 (21.1 per cent) to lead the class participation. However, no class has come close to the record set in 1965 by the class of 1925 with 43.6 per cent contributing.

Auburn Annual Giving was introduced in 1965 when 2,900 charter contributors, approximately seven per cent of the alumni body, gave $168,000. The AAG program has remained a mail campaign—reminding alumni of their key role, through an annual gift, in helping Auburn advance.

Although many gifts are designated to the library and to various departments, the majority are for Auburn's most crucial need: keeping and attracting quality faculty. Through alumni gifts, faculty in many areas of the University have received Alumni Professorships.

A CONTINUING RESOURCE—As the Library remains a continuing resource of the university through the books on its shelves, so does the Auburn alumni body with individual support of the University through the Auburn Annual Giving Program. This year alumni contributed more than $185,000 to help Auburn to higher goals.

35 Companies Match Alumni Gifts

An opportunity that apparently is being overlooked by many alumni is the "matching gift" program of nearly 400 companies. Recognizing their stake in quality education and the contribution colleges have made in the development of their employees, these companies match the gifts of their employees to their alma maters. Several companies, among them Gulf Oil, match such gifts on a 2-for-1 basis.

Here is a real opportunity for all alumni working for a "matching" company. Restrictions are few and forms and procedures simple.

Auburn University salutes the following companies for their support of AAG-68 through matching gifts:

To Alumni and Friends:

Each year that I am at Auburn I become more impressed with the loyalty, spirit and initiative of the Auburn Alumni, its friends and our fine students.

The 1968 Auburn Annual Giving Program has just ended. I am happy to report that in 1968 AAG greatly surpassed the results of 1967. Your continued financial support has made it possible to initiate urgently needed projects and thus continue to improve the Auburn we love.

A large degree of the success of this year's program can be attributed to Mr. Leon Gottlieb, '22, and Mr. Clyde Pearson, '26, who challenged their classmates by volunteering to match the total amount given by their classmates. Another assist came from members of the Century Club. Many members of the Century Club increased their gifts and responded to the request for "every member to get a new member to the Century Club."

This is the time of the year for each of us to review our contribution budget for 1969. I am confident that Auburn Annual Giving will receive a high priority on your list. This will assure that at the end of 1969 I can once again report to you that "you have made the difference."

Sincerely yours,

Harry M. Philpott
